New York News

NEW YORK, April 2 — Although the number of indictments by the U S Grand Jury for whisky and other frauds was estimated yesterday at over one hundred there were in fact only fifteen or eighteen. These included the names of several persons formerly indicted. The number will perhaps amount to eighty in all. Among the number is Judge Pratt of Brooklyn who held the collectorship of Internal Revenue in 186 ... But Judge Davis District Attorney thinks the indictment against him was found under a total misapprehension of the acts

In conversation while ... yesterday the delivery ... the District Attorney's office whose appointment is due to Gen Butler and who is especially instructed in this branch of the District Attorney's office said replying to a question whether the Grand Jury investigated any recent Custom House frauds that it was a question whether any Custom House frauds had recently been exposed by the Investigating Committee, that no instructions had been sent from Washington to investigate the Custom House bribery case A number of prominent persons are mentioned in the list of names most of whom are subordinate ... Connecticut Election

The Connecticut election created but little excitement in this city last night. Evening dispatches from that State report that probably Jewell's majority over both opponents is 200 or 300 and 2,000 over Hubbard. The total vote is 5 000 less than last year. The Reformers ran much below their computed strength but the Temperance ticket ran well. The World says Liberal Republicans did not give much support to the Democrats, and that they seemed unwilling to break with the Grant wing until after the Cincinnati Convention

WASHINGTON CITY

Earl Granville's Letter.

WASHINGTON, April 2 — At a Cabinet meeting to day all the members were present. The letter of Earl Granville in reply to Secretary Fish was read, occupying nearly the entire two hours session. The particulars of the letter cannot be ascertained as Cabinet members decline to converse on the subject. It is known however from a reliable source that the letter of Granville is in the character of an argument against the claim of the United States for indirect damages. It is firm, yet friendly in tone and expresses the hope that both nations will come to an understanding which will eventually carry out the treaty of Washington according to what the British Government believes it to be its true intent and meaning. The Secretary of State will not reply to Granville for some time as time is required for consideration of the points and arguments of this unusually lengthy diplomatic letter

The Committee of Ways and Means to day agreed to report in favor of specific instead of ad valorem duty on books. They also determined to amend the duty on chickory. Suit will be levied on ware ... and ... straw etc as heretofore

The House Appropriation Committee agreed to report in favor of an appropriation of $225 000 for the Signal Service Bureau. The appropriation last year was $150 000 and the amount asked now is $250 000

New York News

NEW YORK April ... At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Erie Company to day O H Archer resigned the office of Vice President and Director. The Board passed a resolution thanking Archer for his assistance in effecting recent changes in the affairs of the Company. The defendants were acquitted of the principal charge of libel but were found guilty of insulting a functionary of the French Government, for which they were sentenced to one month's imprisonment and a fine of 3 000 francs

In the course of his address yesterday before a Committee of the Assembly Thiers defined the attitude of France toward the Spanish Crown. He declared that it was the intent of France to keep Amadeus on the throne because his overthrow would lead to a revival of the candidatures of Montpensier or the Hohenzolern. The time is near when the inhabitants of Mulhausen in Alsace must choose a French or German nationality. It is said nearly all are determined to adhere to the French nationality

CALIFORNIA

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO April 2. The loss by the destruction of Wilson's slaughter and pork packing establishment between Black Point and Presidio last night is less than first estimated. The firm usually keeps $100 000 worth of stock on hand but large contracts with the Government had been filled reducing the amount to a nominal figure. The total loss will fall under $100 000, on which there is insurance for $30 000. The establishment will be rebuilt immediately

The attachment issued in favor of Mrs Laura D Fair against her mother, in the suit for $16,000 which the latter drew from the Bank of California to prevent its being attached by Mrs Fair's physicians has been returned. The organization will be effected in a few days and the names announced. San Francisco has not been so thoroughly awakened and united on any subject for years

The Campaign of 1872

[From Harper's Weekly for March 23.]

A committee appointed at a meeting of Republicans in the city of Topeka in Kansas lay ... an address which implies concert with the Cincinnati Convention. Whether however that Convention is to be a mass meeting merely or an assembly of delegates of organized movements in the different States does not clearly appear. But the nomination of Judge Davis by the Labor Reformers, and the strenuous exhortations to passivity from many of the chief Democratic journals in the country show that there is a very lively hope should General Grant be renominated, of concentrating every element of opposition to the Republican party upon a single candidate. Indeed some of the shrewdest political observers in the country believe that the Democratic party as a body will sustain the Cincinnati candidate. And when told that if he be a Republican such support would be the virtual disbanding of the Democratic party, the reply is that it would be only a piece of strategy well understood by the Democratic leaders, and by all who closely study political affairs

The Kansas address says that "we are required to believe that fealty to the President is above fealty to the party and that fealty to the party is above and beyond the principles upon which the party was founded." Who, in any proper sense, "requires" this is not clearly stated. The address further declares that a certain purpose has animated every Republican State Convention which has been held to elect delegates to the Philadelphia Convention, and that the purpose is the renomination of the President and the perpetuation of ... Now that State Conventions of Republicans express their preference for General Grant as a candidate is merely an exercise of that liberty which every Republican ought to exercise before the nomination and if any Republican ... [illegible] ... upon the ... the Kansas address ... and Ross expressly does charge a purpose of perpetuating "the corrupt rings that are sapping the life blood of the nation" is a zeal for Cincinnati quite beyond reason. It is an extravagance which certainly cannot harm the Republican party

The Cincinnati Convention will be really important should it make a nomination which would be supported by the entire opposition. If the Republican Convention at Philadelphia should nominate the President—as there is now very little doubt that it will—there will be a vigorous effort to combine the disaffected Republicans and the Democrats. If the effort does not succeed and a candidate is nominated at Cincinnati, the result will be a small diminution of the regular Republican vote but not the defeat of the regular Republican candidate. If it does succeed, the Presidential campaign of 1872 will be the Republican party against the field. On the one side will be a host composed of old Copperheads of the Ku Klux of every man who in any degree hates the Government and the Union, of Republicans selfishly estranged from their party and known as "soreheads" with sincere Democrats and some Republicans who honestly believe that the re-election of General Grant would be a greater misfortune than the defeat of the Republican party. On the other side will be the great multitude of the old Republicans, with whom its principles are a religion, who believe that it, and it alone, offers the surest guarantee of national peace, liberty and prosperity, and with them the Republicans who are selfishly interested in the party success, and some Democrats who would rather vote for Grant than for other Republicans.

In such a campaign why should any sincere Republican, who knows that in politics the resolution only to be content with the ideally best so often baffles the practically better, support the supposed Cincinnati candidate? Let us imagine him to be a Republican able and honorable. Let us concede that to the voter of whom we speak he seems a man more fitted for the Presidential office than the candidate of the Republican convention. Yet the necessities of his position and conditions of his elections should he be elected, would necessarily constrain his action. The great mass of his supporters would be Democrats. In a government like ours a government by party, he could not escape his position. His administration, call it what you will would be a Democratic administration and it would be merely a bridge over which the Democratic party fully organized, with banners flying and bugles blowing with all its artillery, baggage wagons and bummers would march into power in 187 !

This would not be true if the Cincinnati party were a new party. This was not true in 1856 when the Republican party composed of Free-soil Democrats and old Whigs, polled twelve hundred thousand votes for Fremont. The Republican organization was a new party, formed upon great issues, and declaring great principles. It was not founded upon a preference of candidates, or mere discontent with the administration. It was not a protest against certain men and alleged evil practices in some details of administration. It was a reconstruction of parties upon vital and fundamental questions. There is no such situation now. The old issues indeed are tending to settlement. The country demands honest and efficient administration. But the mistake of the Cincinnati leaders is in supposing that the people believe honest and efficient administration to be surer under Democratic than under Republican control of the Government. Gentlemen at Washington fix their eyes upon some abuse of detail until they see nothing else, and naturally believe anything desirable which in their judgment promises to remedy that. They demand a kind of symmetry and consistency of administration which are impossible. There will be in every Administration great omissions, serious blunders, disheartening details of many kinds. But the wise and patriotic man, less anxious to find fault than to encourage and sustain every good behavior, judging the whole by a general spirit and purpose rather than captiously challenging single acts, while he holds the Administration justly responsible will never forget the terrible alternative offered by the defeat of the Republican party

A Possum Fable

The Statesman gets off the following which has only to be read to be appreciated

According to Æsop who was a most wonderful inventor of stories illustrative of human nature there was once a possum of an observant eye and an inquiring turn of mind which, seeing a cat engaged in carrying her litter of young in her mouth made bold to catechise the cat, thus "Why don't you carry your young in a pouch as we opossums do?" The cat which seems to have been a sort of Latin cat being thus interrogated replied "Non possumus (we are not all possums)"

History repeats itself and we find that as in the ancient Æsopian days we are not all possums in this year of our Lord 1872. In Marion county the transportation pouch is still used by all good and true Democratic mother possums. In Jackson county for instance it is on the contrary quite the reverse if we may judge of the matter by the caterwaulings we hear. In Marion Democracy is possum in Jackson it is cat. So when the maternal Grover possum shall want to know you know why the Jackson Democracy don't carry on things as we do here at the Capital the latter will reply of course "Non possumus ..."

GENERAL NOTES AND NEWS

It is the intention of planters in the interior of Texas to put in an immense crop of cotton this season

Messrs Garfield and Dawes correct Tipton's statements that they are for the nominee of the Cincinnati Convention

The last year's pecan crop in Texas is estimated at over one million of bushels for export which will realize to that State several millions of dollars

Many families says the New York Mail, who reside in elegant stone fronts, and appear very wealthy, usually after marrying off their daughters move into smaller dwellings in a less fashionable locality

The Lexington Mo., Caucasian noticing the announcement that the American Tract Society issued 15 000 000 tracts during the past year remarks that "it will take a million billions printed on forked lightning bolt type and hell blistered paper, and bound with deadly adders and scorpions to reach the sin hardened hearts of this vile generation. Where's Brick Pomeroy?"

The Berlin correspondent of the London Times gives an interesting sketch of the enormous armaments of the continental powers. Germany has at her immediate disposal 1,000,000 men, the French army will be raised to 450,000 men, and in twelve years will be doubled. Austria has more than 800,000 men immediately available, and in a few years the Russian army will number 1 000 000 men. The correspondent mentions, incidentally, that the "entire loss of Germany in the campaign has been lately ascertained as something like 180,000 men, rather more than half of whom are invalided"

The Cincinnati Convention

[From the Boston Advertiser]

... known months ago that the administration had lost the friendship of Mr Sumner and of four or five of ... Senators in the Senate. It was also known ... in the political contest just opening the administration had nothing to hope for from Mr Greeley and other Republican journalists whom the President had ... the misfortune to offend ... it was ... simply incredible that they would ... to a systematic and persistent slander of the administration and of the men who represent it, in order to justify their hostility. Even while the angry debate on Mr Sumner's resolution, relating to the alleged unlawful sale of government arms, was going on, very few believed that it was a part of conspiracy to discredit the President with the people, and to defeat those who had ... a preference for his renomination. And thousands of people read in the New York Tribune Wednesday the already refuted lie, that "the President had declared his intention to force his nomination at Philadelphia, whether there should then appear a reasonable prospect of his election or not," without suspecting that that also was a part of a scheme to disorganize the friends of the administration, and to stimulate the opposition, who look to Cincinnati as a comfortable way of ... into a new party.

Whatever may have been the motive of the Missouri cabal which called the Cincinnati convention, it had no hope of succeeding at the outset, and has no hope now, except by appealing to the disappointments of those who have allowed their personal feelings to override their loyalty. The Cincinnati convention! There is not an intelligent democrat from Maine to Texas who is not at this moment looking to it for an alliance, and expecting to cooperate with it, for the solitary purpose of recovering power and stopping the growth of principles which Mr Sumner and Mr Greeley have in their way helped to graft upon the national life. And while the discreet dissenters are imploring Democrats not too plunge in too soon and spoil the game the Democratic organs are urging their constituents to prepare their minds for cooperation with this Convention as the only way of escape from annihilation. "The most hopelessly pig headed Bourbon in the party" says one of these organs, "must now recognize the fact that a Democratic candidate for President could not carry more than one-third of the electoral vote. It follows that the hope of rescuing the country from imperialism and corruption depends solely on the union of all the elements of opposition." To secure this union and achieve the victory every Democrat who is not insane looks to this Convention to point out the way. It was only yesterday, simultaneously with the dispatch explaining Mr Sumner's position, that, by a striking coincidence the Democratic organ in Washington invited co-operation with the Convention with the assurance that "the extreme Southern wing of the Democracy was ready to agree to a coalition

Meanwhile the Republican National Convention is receiving the indorsement of State after State, none dissenting, the people expressing their preferences with unanimity never surpassed, but ready to accept the result, whatever it may be—provided it is in the line of the principles already on trial, and gives assurance that until they are securely established there must be no new departure.

After the great amount of "fuss" made by the possum press of the State in regard to the defalcations of Samuel E May it seems about to result just as we thought and though the first arrest was made on five indictments for $14 000, these indictments have all been quashed and now these pretended guardians of the State funds come with eight more separate charges, claiming only that May's defalcations amount to about $800. It is no more than sheer justice to May to say that all this looks very much as if the entire matter was gotten up for political effect

THURSDAY MORNING, APRIL [illegible]

The Connecticut Election

Connecticut follows New Hampshire. It is another lesson for those who had supposed that the Republican party had lost its vitality and was tending to its fall. It is another popular demonstration in favor of General Grant and a rebuke of the factionists who have been trying to bring his administration into discredit with the people. It is a result which again demonstrates how powerful a hold the Republican party has upon the confidence of the country. These successive triumphs indicate that the whole country will be swept for Grant in November. Not a single State north of the old line of slavery can be named which with any reasonable probability can be claimed for the opposition.

The truth is that with the overthrow of that central oligarchy of thieves, the Tammany Ring, which so long ruled the Democratic party, the backbone of the party was broken. So long as that gang was in power and had the immense revenues of New York to draw upon for a corruption-fund the party appeared to be vigorous and full of vitality. Especially in all the States within the reach of New York influence it made an energetic fight, and often won. But the overthrow of Tammany has cut off the source whence this vigor was supplied and deprived of the stolen millions the party battles feebly and with poor success.

The result in Connecticut shows further how utterly impotent is the effort of malcontent Republicans to disintegrate the party. This is an effort with which the people do not sympathize. Its authors are disappointed politicians whose motives for "bolting" are considered frivolous or unworthy, and the masses do not care for them.

A Report on Freights and Fares

We have been placed in possession of a long report of the Committee on Corporations of the California Legislature upon railroad freights and fares. To this Committee were referred certain bills to amend the incorporation act of that State, so that the Legislature might have power to control freights and fares on railways. The investigation that was had took a wide range. It does not appear that any cause of complaint existed against any company of the State as to freights and fares now charged, and no extortion or oppression was proved. The result of the investigation went to show that, "in order to do even approximate justice to both the people and the railroads, a general law regulating freights and fares could not be framed to apply to all the roads in the State, but, if such matters must be regulated by law, there should be a separate statute for each road, in which the classes of freight should be distinctly specified, and the rates upon each class and between each station should be plainly set forth." This, it was stated, was deemed impracticable, as "no schedule of rates could be adopted which would do justice to both carrier and shipper."

In pursuing the investigation the difficulty presented itself of establishing a rigid tariff which would protect all shippers from hardship, and not be prohibitory upon some kinds of goods. The difficulty of classification of freight continually arises; character and length of roads, population along the line of road and adjacent country, grades, curves, altitudes, bridges, fuel, etc., etc., are all to be considered. The Committee thought it plain that the carrying capacity of a road is not a criterion for tariff rates, unless the work is equal to the capacity. If there were an attempt to regulate freight tariffs, the rates must bear a proportion to the amount of transportation demanded.

To illustrate this subject further the Committee presented a comparison of the business of the Central Pacific of California with the business of the Erie, the New York Central, the Atlantic & Great Western, and Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railroads. This comparison developed the fact that the rolling stock upon the four roads last named is worth to them about four times as much as the same kind and cost of stock is worth to the Central Pacific. "In other words," says the report, "in order for the Central Pacific to gain the same effective return upon their investment they should charge four times as much for every passenger and every ton of freight as either of the four roads mentioned. And should this Legislature attempt to apply to California railroads the tariff of Eastern roads without inquiry into the questions of capacity and tonnage, the injustice will be done of compelling one road to do business at a loss, while another having a larger business could comply with the same law of tariff and make a profit."

The law of California (and of Oregon as well) authorizing railroads to be constructed is open to all capital. The Committee say: "It must be admitted without argument that all investments in railroads must or should be allowed sufficient freedom in their financial management to secure as fair a return upon the money expended as any other investment of like amount should or would have," and it was recommended unanimously by the Committee that the proposed bills to fix rates should not pass.

Elaborate tables, showing charges for freight on many of the principal railways of the United States, are published with the report. On the roads centering at Chicago the rates on wheat and flour, for distances of twenty-five miles or under, are from twelve to fifteen cents per ton per mile. For distances of fifty miles, eight to nine cents; for distances of one hundred miles five to six cents. We may now make a comparison of these rates with those on Oregon railroads. The distance from Albany to Portland is about eighty miles. Five and a half cents per ton per mile on wheat and flour for this distance, the average rates on the roads centering at Chicago, would give $4 40 per ton. The actual rates as we learn are $4 60. A like comparison will hold good as to rates from Eugene City.

We may quote, at a future time, more fully from these tables and make further comparisons.

"We shall have to wait for the mail," said the Herald some days ago in speaking of the result in New Hampshire. We fear that mail has not been received at the Herald office yet. But we have it. Here is what it brings: Straw 38,738; Weston 36,588; scattering 1,013. Straw's majority over Weston 2,150; over all 1,137. This is the full vote of the State. The vote for Grant in 1868 was 38,191, or 547 less than Straw's vote.

At Brooklyn, N. Y., a large number of leading citizens, chiefly merchants and business men, have resolved to hold a meeting at the Academy of Music on the 8th of April to give expression of their desire for the re-election of Grant and Colfax.

OREGON

The frame for the steam flouring mill at Hillsboro will be raised to-day.

The calico ball mania has reached Salem, and the season will open to-night.

The Washington county Republican Committee will meet at Hillsboro next Saturday.

The Chemeketa Hotel at Salem will be re-opened to the traveling public about the first of June.

[illegible] D. Driver will lecture on the "Divinity of our Saviour" at the Opera House in Salem this evening.

The Statesman urges the Salemites to procure a town clock at a cost of $1,500. It costs $74 00 to keep one lit up of nights for a year.

All the school districts in Washington county have levied a tax sufficient to keep up a school for from six to nine months during the year.

Mrs Duniway lectured at Gervais on Tuesday evening, and intends remaining there as long as circumstances demand, but will probably lecture in South Salem about the last of the present week.

Considerable sickness prevails among the children in Jacksonville at present. The little ones are afflicted with a species of typhoid fever, that has brought many of them to the brink of the grave.

A letter from Link river published in the Times says: "Everything appears spring-like and business is lively. Plowing, sowing and gardening is going on. Fish are caught by the ton and are delicious."

A straw man was put up on the police of Salem on All Fools Day, and after the Marshal had been fooled on it he sent the Street Commissioner to the jail to take the said man of straw out to work on the streets.

The inhabitants in Skunk's Hollow, Washington county, says our correspondent from Hillsboro, have been having a general rough time in the matter of criminal law suits, the upshot of which is quite a bill of expense to the county.

Another independent candidate—R. A. Gessner—nominates himself for Sheriff of Marion county through the advertising columns of the Statesman. If all the men in that county who want the office were to combine they might elect one of their number.

The last number of the Times, Democratic, at Jacksonville, is almost filled with growlings, slurs and innuendoes at the proceedings of the County Democratic Convention. We judge from the tone of the Times that the "unterrified" of Jackson county are wonderfully demoralized.

Engineers in the employ of the Oregon and California Railroad have been making preliminary surveys in order to estimate the cost and feasibility of a line of railroad out to the Butte Creek coal mines. It is understood that Holladay has purchased the mines and contemplates working the same.

A Lane county man asks the Eugene papers to deny their statements made some time ago that he was killed by a tree. He says that it was gotten up for political purposes, to prevent him from being nominated for Sheriff of that county. He protests against so mean a way of chucking a fellow out of the ring.

The Statesman says: "Major Berry, when Superintendent of the Penitentiary, paid four dollars per day to brick burners, and the Smelling Commission cut the claims down to two dollars and fifty cents, because they were held by Republicans. Watkinds in 1871, paid four dollars per day for the same kind of labor, and that was considered perfectly right by the meddlesome Committee."

The County Commissioners' Court for Washington county met April 1st. The time was taken up in hearing petitions for the change and location of roads. The roads heretofore laid out have been intended for the purpose of teaming to Portland, but since the construction of the first section of the West Side Railroad it has become necessary to lay out roads leading from neighborhoods north and south to the stations along the line, and every one seems to be interested in getting a road from his house to the nearest station, hence the number of petitions presented at the last two or three terms of the Court.

The blooded sheep lately arriving here for Messrs. Tyal and Goldsmith were bred in the counties of Bourbon, Fayette and Harrison, Kentucky, and were brought to this coast by Colonel Peter Saxe in August last. The buck weighs about 250 pounds, and the ewes will average some 200 pounds, though suckling large lambs. Some of the lambs, dropped in November last, are estimated at 70 to 75 pounds each, and have now a growth of wool five inches in length. The grown sheep have now heavy fleeces of wool notwithstanding they were shorn the last of October. The sheep are said to be the finest ever received on the coast.

GENERAL NOTES AND NEWS

Rev Henry De Foe, a descendant of the author of "Robinson Crusoe," is a clergyman now settled in Leicestershire, England.

The Michigan Republican State Convention to choose delegates to the National Convention, at Philadelphia, will meet in Jackson, May 16th.

The Supreme Court of Massachusetts has decided that, when a jury once separates after retiring for deliberation, it cannot again deliberate on the case.

Field Marshal Sir John Burgoyne, who died lately in England, aged 90, was son of General Burgoyne, who commanded the British forces in this country during the Revolution.

A negro who was suspected of surreptitiously meddling with his neighbor's fruit, being caught in a garden by moonlight, nonplussed his detectors by raising his eyes, clasping his hands, and piously exclaiming: "Good Lord! dis yere darkey can't go nowheres to pray any more widout being disturbed."

A story illustrative of the way in which revolutions are got up in South America is told by the Anglo Brazilian Times: "Three or four years ago, an Argentine Second Lieutenant made a 'pronunciamento' in the city of Corrientes, but he was beaten and captured. At his court-martial he was asked, 'What part had you in the affair?' 'I was commander-in-chief of all the Infantry of the revolution.' 'How many men had that Infantry?' 'Seven men,' replied the commander-in-chief."

Here is a resolution adopted in the Democratic Convention of Jackson county:

Resolved, That the Democracy of Jackson county, in Convention assembled, hereby instruct its delegates to the State Convention to oppose the nomination of J. W. Nesmith for Representative to Congress under any and all circumstances.

This is rather rough. But we should sympathize with Mr Nesmith more than we do did he not persist in training with a party that hates and will never forgive him for his support of the Government and the Union in the days of the rebellion.

The Herald sneers at what it is pleased to call "the Radical doctrine of 'vested rights' with reference to incorporated companies." How happens it that this doctrine is called "Radical"? It is in your State Constitution, which was made by Democrats, and it was ratified by the people when Oregon contained an overwhelming majority of Democratic votes. Has it now become a thing for Democrats to sneer at and denounce?

A tremendous effort was made to carry New Hampshire and Connecticut against Grant by the use of "French Arms." But they proved as inefficient against the Republicans in those States as they did against the Germans on the Seine and Loire.

SCHOOL ELECTION.—At the annual school election held in Holladay's Addition District No 31 on last Monday, James B. Upton was elected Director for the term of three years and Robert E. Bybee School Clerk. A resolution was passed levying a tax of two mills for School purposes.

THE CALIFORNIA CODES

SACRAMENTO, March [illegible]

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

Sir: The most important legislation that has been done by the present Legislature is the enactment of the Codes, and it is no exaggeration to say that this is the most important step ever taken by a California Legislature. The laws scattered through [illegible] volumes of statutes, with the [illegible] made by Supreme Court decisions, [illegible] gathered together and [illegible] reduced [illegible] the Political Code, the Civil Code, the Code of Civil Procedure and the Penal Code. Four years ago three lawyers were appointed by the Legislature to revise the laws of the State. They did very little, however, except to draw $3,000 each from the State Treasury. In 1870 a new law was passed authorizing the Governor to appoint three Commissioners to [illegible] the work of the former Commission, and to recommend all such amendments as shall in the judgment of the Commission be necessary to supply the defects of and give completeness to the existing legislation of the State, and prepare and present bills therefor. Their compensation was fixed at $6,000 a year each, and they were allowed a clerk at $200 a month. This liberal compensation, it was thought, together with the honor attending the work, would secure the highest order of talent for the great work. Governor Haight selected as the Commissioners Creed Haymond, formerly of Sierra county, John C. Burch of Trinity county, and Charles Lindley of Yuba county. They organized as a Commission May 9th, 1870, by electing Judge Haymond chairman and Cameron H. King Secretary. They at once went to work in good earnest. They construed the law which defined their duties to authorize the systematic arrangement of the revised statutes in the shape of codes. Taking the New York codes as models, and consulting the codes and revised laws of other States, they compiled the California statutes, sifting out the portions that had been repealed or amended, lopping off many useless words, phrases and even some provisions of law, and arranged them in logical order. As they prepared the several chapters of the codes they had them printed in pamphlet form and distributed copies to leading lawyers and to the press for criticism. The comments and suggestions which followed were numerous, and many of them, being regarded as valuable by the commission, led to important changes. Just before the present Legislature convened Governors Haight and Booth, acting jointly, took the responsibility of appointing Chas. A. Tuttle and Sidney L. Johnson, lawyers of eminence and character, to act as an advisory committee to thoroughly examine the work of the revision commission and suggest such changes as they might deem proper. This committee went over the whole work, word by word, and in accordance with their advice further changes were made. When the Legislature met, a joint committee for each code was appointed by the two houses to examine the work as it left the hands of the advisory committee. These committees were occupied during most of the session with their duties, and made some additional changes, mostly of a verbal character. Each code, as thus amended, was neatly enrolled and bound, making a large manuscript volume. It was then presented to the Legislature as a bill and read three times by title—the reading by sections being dispensed with—considered engrossed and passed without a dissenting vote. They were all introduced in the Senate, and each one except the penal code, passed on the day of its introduction under suspension of the rules. They went to the Governor in the same shape in which they were introduced, without enrollment, and have all been approved by him. They go into effect on the first day of January 1873, except the portions of the political code which relate to Revenue, State and county officers and counties and county boundaries. These portions, together with the provisions of the penal code which apply to them, have been put into immediate effect by special acts. The arrangement of these codes and their size will be indicated by the following brief summary:

I. The Political Code will make a printed octavo volume of about eight hundred pages. It is divided into four parts: 1. Of the jurisdiction of the State, the persons composing the people of the State, and the political rights and duties of all persons belonging to its jurisdiction. 2. Of the chief political divisions and legal distances of the State. 3. Of the general government of the State. 4. Of the local government of counties, cities, towns and villages.

II. The Civil Code will be an octavo volume of about eight hundred and eighty pages. It will consist of four divisions: 1. Of persons. 2. Of property. 3. Of obligations. 4. Of general provisions relating to persons, property and obligations.

III. The Code of Civil Procedure will form a volume of five hundred and fourteen pages octavo. It is arranged in four parts: 1. Of courts of justice. 2. Of civil actions. 3. Of special proceedings. 4. Of evidence.

IV. The Penal Code is an octavo volume of three hundred and twenty-two pages, and has three parts: 1. Of crimes and punishments. 2. Of criminal procedure. 3. Of the State Prison and county jails.

Of course this is but a meagre outline of these books. They have been highly commended by legal gentlemen here, and also by David Dudley Field—the most active of the New York Code Commissioners. Their effect upon the State will doubtless be very great. The experience of California will probably be similar to that of New York in this respect: members of Legislatures who imagine themselves great lawyers or statesmen will be constantly amending the codes until after a few years it will be almost as difficult to tell what the law is as it was before the statutes were revised. But [illegible] twenty years from now they will probably be revised again. It has been well said that codes cannot be invented; they must grow up with a State. There is one provision of the political code which strikes me as a novel one, designed to accomplish a good purpose. It requires the Governor before an election to issue a proclamation offering a premium or reward for the arrest and conviction of any person for having made any wager upon the success or defeat of a candidate. The amount of the reward is to be recovered off the guilty party, or in case he is unable to pay it, it is to be a charge against the State. I have not a copy of the code by me, but my recollection is that the amount of the reward is $100 for each case, the amount to be paid by the State being limited to $10,000. The penal code makes betting on an election a misdemeanor punishable with fine and imprisonment.

In concluding this article I cannot resist the inclination to notice the Chairman of the Code Commission, Creed Haymond. Without detracting from any one else aught that is due, he may be said to be the author of the California codes. One of the commissioners (Judge Lindley) did not act in harmony with the majority and finally resigned his office. The other member was constantly and efficiently employed, but acted chiefly under the advice of the Chairman. Haymond is a remarkable man. He is of medium size, has a full forehead, bright eye, and is quick and rather nervous in movement. His mind instinctively [illegible] the cobwebs that obscure a question, and at once takes hold of the point at issue. He seems to delight in hard work and can endure a great deal of it. He is a Virginian by birth, but came to California when a boy with a common school education. He worked in the mines like every other Californian, kept a little store awhile, and finally drifted into the legal profession, beginning practice in Sierra county. He served a term as Judge of his District, and in 1868 was a delegate to the National Democratic Convention which nominated Seymour for President. He is a young man, less than forty, has many strong friends, and if he does not attain further distinction in public life it will be because he clings to unpopular political opinions.

The Sacramento [illegible] of March 22d says: "The freight train from the East yesterday brought as part of its freight about a ton and a half of eggs."

Theory of Earthquakes

How to account for the recent heavy earthquake in California is a subject of general and anxious discussion in that State. A new theory of earthquakes, different from anything heretofore proposed so far as we know, has been promulgated by W. F. Stewart of San Jose. This theory was elaborated by him in a lecture in the Assembly Chamber at Sacramento a few evenings ago. We quote from the [illegible] a statement of the substance of the theory:

For many years Stewart has closely observed and studiously reflected upon earthquakes and their cause. The result of his reading, study and observation is an opinion that they are caused by a meeting of electrical currents, which move, one upon the earth's surface, the other in the region of clouds, and that they are brought together by those natural conductors, vapor and rain clouds. The meeting of the two currents upon the surface of the earth causes an earthquake. [illegible] of railways [illegible] that causes earthquakes as lightning rods are of that electricity which comes from the clouds during a thunder storm. He maintained in his lecture that by means of these and other conductors it is in the power of man to so distribute the force of the electric currents which cause earthquakes that they will be as harmless as the lightning conducted down a lightning rod into the earth. He says the transcontinental iron track and wires are already doing this valuable service for California in sending a part of our earthquake forces far and wide into the [illegible] danger and intensity of the shocks are lessened here.

The [illegible] of the 27th March proceeds to say that the earthquake which occurred throughout California on the morning of the 26th furnished striking and opportune proof of the soundness of the theory. We quote again from that paper:

Exactly the atmospheric condition which his theory requires to bring the two electric currents together then existed, and what transpired upon their meeting was precisely that which this theory called for. The shock was felt all along the lines of the railways from Oakland to Winnemucca, being most severe at points nearest to that point where the cloud conductors were most dense and where the opposing electrical currents may be assumed to have been first brought together. Off the line of the railway any considerable distance there was no perceptible shock, or at least only a very slight one. At San Francisco, hitherto supposed to be standing on the most quaky ground, there was not shock enough to cause alarm, though at Oakland it lasted over a minute and was startling. In this city it lasted not less than a minute and a half, part of the time severe enough to shake the plaster from walls and everywhere to drive people in alarm from their beds and a number out of their houses. At [illegible], directly on the line of the railway 25 miles west of here, the shock was strong enough to throw one person out of bed, and it was also heavy on the line of the road eastward from here as far as heard from. In addition to the proof furnished by this last trembler, we may add that, since the railway track has been laid down, there have been, to our knowledge, four other earthquakes, all following the very same course this one followed, none of them reaching San Francisco at all, and all of them being most severe in the towns directly upon the line of the railway; and when it is reflected that prior to the laying down of these iron conductors Sacramento never felt an earthquake that was not more severely felt at San Francisco, it must be admitted that Stewart's theory receives such confirmation in experience as entitles it to the most respectful attention from men of science and all others.

SPRING GOODS.—Don't be alarmed about the increase in the prices of Clothing and Furnishing Goods while J. O'Neil & Co are doing business in this city. They are offering a fresh invoice of Spring Goods for Gents wear, such as Dress Suits, Business Suits, Hosiery, Shirts, Ties, and anything that may be found in a well regulated Gents Furnishing Store. Prices to accommodate all classes. Mr Scharf of the firm is in San Francisco selecting all the Latest Styles and Furnishing Goods. The patrons of O'Neil & Co may therefore anticipate something new and attractive at all times in the stock of J. O'Neil & Co, 95 First street. They offer the Cheviot Shirt, which is just the thing for summer wear.

TO OLD PATRONS AND NEW.—Advertising brings patronage; [illegible] polite attention [illegible] and a low price keep it.

Colors that fade
Fabrics that shrink
Sewing that rips,

Do irreparable injury to the Clothing trade. Jas. Korn & Co., 31 Front street, keep all of the above objectionable features from having a place among the goods they offer. A trial will attest this.

THE UMATILLA HOUSE at The Dalles is now completed and furnished in every respect unsurpassed. The office is the most cheerful and pleasant in the State, and the dining hall is unequaled. The rooms are all neatly furnished. The house has twelve suites of rooms with stoves in them for families. The new house stands much higher than the old one. The ceilings are four feet higher, which adds greatly to the cheerfulness of the rooms. The table is kept in a style to correspond fully with the appointments.

REMOVED

Still Another Remarkable Cure

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 10, 1871

I. A. M. Loryea & Co.—For two years I was afflicted with Rheumatism and tried all the known remedies, but experienced nothing more than a temporary relief, the disease always returning. Some months since I concluded to take your Unk Weed Remedy, and the result was a speedy and Permanent Cure, the Rheumatism being entirely eradicated from the system. The UNK is also a Tonic of the very highest order. It increases the appetite, and invigorates the body. I cheerfully bear testimony to its good effect upon me, and feel sure that it will do all you claim for it.

Very truly yours,
J. W. TRIPP

THURSDAY MORNING APRIL 4 1872

CAPTURED.—La Drew alias Smith was arrested in that city on Tuesday evening by [illegible] Kelly. This jail bird effected his escape some weeks since from the jail in Albany where he was [illegible] on charge of larceny He came [illegible] the Fair Grounds below Salem, when the Sheriff and deputy scented his tracks He eluded them there and made for Champoeg closely pursued by the officers When the latter came in sight of the river they had the dissatisfaction of seeing the fugitive just in the act of landing on the opposite shore A dense thicket lay beyond the river for some distance and so the pursuit was abandoned for the present La Drew soon after turned up in this city Intelligence of his escape reached the police court here and La Drew soon after disappeared He was next heard of at Kalama An artful trap was set by the officers here and the gentleman was [illegible] to enter it Offers of employment were made to him and growing bold he came up As soon as he reached Portland he was nipped and taken to jail The Sheriff of Linn county was telegraphed to, and came down on the train of yesterday

SAD ACCIDENT—BOY DROWNED—Yesterday afternoon about half past three o'clock as a little son of Mr R Eaton aged about ten years, was playing on the wharf in the rear of the Russ House, he fell through a hole in the flooring into the water beneath His playmates and a man waiting near, saw him fall and immediately gave the alarm. William Ryan of the Russ House [illegible] the outcry rushed to the spot but could see nothing of the unfortunate lad Inquiring of [illegible] who were standing near, as to the precise spot where he had fallen in prompt measures were taken to recover the body Owing to the large amount of drift wood under the wharf the search was prosecuted with much uncertainty and [illegible], and something near twenty minutes [illegible] before the body was found All the appliances known to physicians were tried to resuscitate the body but, alas it was too late the little heart was stilled forever As might well be supposed, Mr and Mrs Eaton, who, by this [illegible] are bereft of an only son are almost [illegible] over the afflicting bereavement.

FOURTH STREET IMPROVEMENT —A proposition is now pending before the City Council which is a [illegible] of much importance to the owners of [illegible] on that street and the people of the city at large. It is the proposal to plank this street on each side of the railroad track The railroad [illegible] propose to begin the grading of the street in accordance with the terms of their [illegible] with the city at an early day, and the matter of making a plank roadway should receive immediate attention and the planking should follow right upon the completion of the grade, which is so steep in places that unless protected by planking or otherwise it will certainly be washed out by the winter rains In a city of the size of Portland, if the street through which the railroad runs is properly improved, so that [illegible] can cross the track at any point as well between the cross streets as upon them, the travel will not be at all incommoded It certainly will [illegible] ary to protect the grade in some way, or it will continually stand in need of repairs during the rainy season

"ALL OVER OREGON AND WASHINGTON TERRITORY."—By a private letter from Mrs F F Victor, author of the book by the above title, to a [illegible] in this city, we learn that the book is now in press and will probably be received here by the 10th or 15th of the present month This book, from the pen of the gifted author will be a [illegible] of great interest to the people of the Pacific coast and the country at large It treats of the scenery soil, climate, resources and [illegible] of Oregon and Washington Territory, with an outline of its early history, remarks on the geology, mineralogy botany etc , and will also contain much valuable information to [illegible] and travelers concerning routes, cost [illegible], price of lands, etc The style of Mrs Victor is familiar to our people, and the favor with which she has hitherto been received by the [illegible] public gives assurance that her new work will meet with liberal patronage This talented lady is expected to arrive in Oregon in the course [illegible]

[illegible] OF INCORPORATION —Ben Holladay [illegible] and Geo W Weidler, filed articles of incorporation in the County Clerk's office [illegible]. The name of the corporation is "The [illegible] Real Estate Company " and its duration was fixed at 99 years. The enterprise pursuit and [illegible] of the corporation is to "purchase, improve sell, convey lease and mortgage " all kinds of real estate lying within the limits of the State also to improve such land, and laying off surveys or otherwise any portions into [illegible] and blocks, streets, alleys or public parks, and to erect warehouses, mills, factories, machine shops, docks or elevators make any [illegible] [illegible] ts, and to do a general real estate business. Portland was designated as the point for the transaction of all the business of the corporation. The amount of capital stock was placed at $1,000,000, amount of each share fixed at $100

AN OLD DEED —Yesterday we were shown an old deed which was filed in the Clerk's office for [illegible] filing, owing to some clerical error having been made at the time the instrument was first filed. The deed was executed on the 5th of July 1850, from Stephen Coffin Daniel H Lownsdale and W. W. Chapman to Campbell Settle The [illegible] ly transferred was lot 1, in block 52 and the consideration was $150 This transfer is nearly one-fourth of a century ago—22 years The prices demanded now for the same property would have seemed then as most fabulous Since that time a miraculous change has been wrought A forest has given place to streets and brick [illegible], and almost literally has the desert been made to blossom as a rose

AUCTION SALE.—The very careful attention of all our readers is called to the advertisement of Joseph Middlemiss, which appears in these columns He will dispose at his rooms to commence at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning, a splendid assortment of chromos and engravings billiard tables, dry goods, crockery hollow ware etc He will also sell at private sale eighty acres of farming land. Read his advertisement

A [illegible] —The Herald local prognosticated a [illegible] victory in Connecticut, yesterday, because the wires were down Now the line is up we guess that our friend is convinced that his [illegible] are false It would have taken an [illegible] at 2 600 possums at the ' polls in the old "Wooden Nutmeg" State to have broken the line down in that way Do you see?

IN MEMORIAM

At a special meeting of the First Hebrew Benevolent Association of Portland held on Tuesday evening April 2d 1872, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted

For as much as it hath pleased Almighty God to summon from the scene of his earthly labors our esteemed and well beloved member, Louis Goodman and while we through Divine mercy are still permitted to labor in that field of usefulness wherein our departed friend rendered such zealous and efficient assistance , therefore we although conscious of the inadequacy of language to express our sentiments and emotions yet desiring to pay a merited tribute of respect to the memory of him whom now the earth has enfolded in her maternal bosom, do resolve—

That the demise of Louis Goodman has left a void in the First Hebrew Benevolent Association as sad to contemplate as it will be difficult to fill

That this community has lost in him a citizen who performed his public duties with fidelity who was singularly free from dissipation and its kindred vices, and who was pure and honest in all the walks of life

That while we deeply mourn our loss we bow in humble submission to the inscrutable decrees of Providence and sincerely hope that He who tempers the wind to the shorn lamb will vouchsafe His heavenly consolation to the sorrowing and bereaved widow and children

That this preamble and resolutions be spread upon the minutes that the Secretary furnish copies to the daily papers of this city Israelite of Cincinnati Jewish Messenger of New York and Hebrew Observer of San Francisco and also transmit an engrossed copy thereof to the family of the deceased

Portland Oregon March [illegible]

The Kooka Outbreak in India and the Recent Execution

[illegible] has robbed the [illegible] of [illegible] large and important [illegible] attention [illegible]. The entire incidents from the beginning of the outbreak [illegible] the capture of the persons by [illegible] military execution [illegible] of the Kooka sect and the [illegible] extinction of the rebellion can hardly be deemed unimportant. The full facts give to the affair a somewhat different complexion from that which appeared from the telegrams. The assault on the Malod or maloudh [illegible] rather more than twenty miles southeast [illegible] and was made by a body of from [illegible] to 300 Kookas and it is [illegible] that Ram Sing, the head prophet of the [illegible] worship [illegible] sect had two days previously given warning to the Loodiana police that such an attack would be made in defiance [illegible] once of his orders.

What the police did in the matter is not yet known but the attack was made with a dash that the mutineers rushing on with the cry "Lo Ram Sing comes" [illegible] make way, reached the house of the Chief, a relative of the Maharajah of Puttiala, and found their way to his private secluded rooms. The Chief was wounded but the townspeople in the meantime had been aroused and the Kookas were eventually driven out leaving a few dead and several prisoners including one woman. Two causes are given for the attack. One the seizure of arms for an [illegible] attack on Kotla, the other [illegible] on the Sirdar in command of the fort for his assistance to the British Government in connection with the murderous affair at Raikote. After their repulse from Malod the mutineers marched to Kotla but halted about a mile and a half from that town, which gave the authorities time to prepare a slight defense and, what was of more importance, to send intelligence of the outbreak to Puttiala.

Meanwhile however the attack was made and repulsed after some hard fighting and the Kookas retreated to Rurr, a village in the Puttiala State, pursued by the Kotla troops. During the pursuit joined in by the Tehsildar of Sherepore about seventy Kookas, half of whom were wounded, were captured. On the 17th the prisoners were taken into Kotla and the Indian Public Opinion says that forty nine of them were blown from guns in the presence of Mr. Cowan, the Deputy Commissioner. The execution must have been ordered either by the authorities of Kotla, or by the Maharajah of Puttiala (I should say the former) but I am quite satisfied that Mr Cowan, if it is true that he was present, will have to give the Government a very satisfactory account indeed of the matter if he is to escape severe censure. I admit all the difficulty of the position. Whoever ordered the execution certainly did much to extinguish a rebellion which was intended and calculated to cause a much greater loss of life. Besides we have found that it is dangerous to be too squeamish in restricting native chiefs to our rules, or, indeed, in restricting ourselves to English rules, but there are some acts that as Englishmen we can neither do nor sanction, and I think this execution is one such act. I hope there will be a satisfactory explanation of it, but nothing has yet appeared.

ONE OF THE GENERAL'S LAST LETTERS—HIS VIEWS REGARDING THE PRESIDENCY

Mr John Tyler, Jr, publishes in the Jacksonville (Fla) Sentinel of March 9 the following letter received by him from Maj Gen George H Thomas, shortly before that distinguished officer's death:

SAN FRANCISCO CAL.
March 8, 1870

Mr John Tyler, Jr

DEAR SIR: I have received your two letters dated Oct 27, 1869 and Feb 1 1870. I did not reply to the first because it only reached me some time after my return to this place. In reply to the political portion of the second I again assure you in all sincerity that I have no ambition in the direction of the Presidency and, therefore, shall not allow my name to go before the people as a candidate for that office in 1872, or at any subsequent date, while there are so many able statesmen in political life to be drawn upon. And is it not rather early to begin to look up another Republican candidate for the next Presidential term? Grant is still young, has not as yet, committed any serious mistake, and if he continues steadfast to the principles enunciated in his inaugural, will be entitled to the second term, or at least to the nomination as an expression of the approbation of the party for his past services.

My life for the last thirty years has been passed in the military service. During that time I have acquired tastes and opinions respecting public duties and responsibilities which do not harmonize with the prevailing ideas of the present day. I could not, therefore, hope to meet with such encouragement from the people as the Executive of the United States must have to assure a successful administration, and the consequent prosperity and advancement of the nation.

My services are now as they have always been subject to the call of the Government in whatever military capacity I may be considered competent and worthy to fill and will be cordially undertaken whenever called upon to render. All civil honors and duties I shall continue to decline. Respectfully and truly yours

GEO H THOMAS

Congregational Statistics

The Congregational Quarterly for January gives statistics of the denomination at the close of last year, which we thus summarize.

There are in the United States 3202 Congregational churches, of which 767 are pastorless, and 3124 ministers, of whom 906 are churchless. In the rest of North America are 104 churches and 94 ministers. The total yield of benevolent contributions for the year was $1 166,959. Massachusetts stands first in the number of ministers and churches there being 501 churches only 75 of which are vacant, and 610 ministers, 179 of whom are not at pastoral work. Massachusetts reports $339 829 in contributions of a benevolent character. Connecticut ranks next to Massachusetts, have 292 churches and 353 ministers, and reporting $283 738 in contributions. Illinois ranks third and New York fourth on the list. Of church membership there is a total of 318 858 in North America 208 181 of whom are women; the Sabbath school membership is 377 793. In 1857 there were 2315 churches showing an increase of 887 up to the present time and 2 350 ministers an increase up to the present year of 774. During the present year the net increase has been in churches 81 in membership a 536 in Sabbath school 7 472 in contributions $195 081.

Of the whole population of New Hampshire 317 063 the last report of the Bank Commissioners shows that 77 472 or nearly one fourth part were depositors in savings banks, that they had accumulated there nearly twenty million dollars since the inauguration of President Lincoln. During the thirteen years from 1848 to 1861 mostly under the Democratic rule, a period of profound peace and low taxation, the industrial and laboring classes deposited in the savings banks less than four million of dollars.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

[illegible]

The Oriflamme will sail from San Francisco for Portland on Saturday morning.

The brig [illegible] from San Francisco was off the Bar yesterday and will probably enter [illegible].

At the last advices [illegible] reported in San Francisco, Scotch pig [illegible] in that market is quoted at $ [illegible].

[illegible] Walla Walla [illegible] The grading for the road is all under contract, and is to be finished by the 1st of July next. Miles are in course of erection at Wallula which will saw the ties and lumber required. The high price and great scarcity of rails is against the enterprise, but if railroad iron cannot be obtained wooden rails covered with strap iron will probably be used till the Company can do better. It is the intention at all events to have the road in operation [illegible] [illegible] and teams that can be made available is employed [illegible]. The [illegible] good weather is affording great facilities for the work. Beyond a doubt the breadth of grain sown will much exceed that of any former year.
